A Tractor With Two - Cylinder Twin Motor Leads Them All

At the first big demonstration of 1919, held by the Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, Hart-Parr 30 developed more horse power than any other three-plow tractor among the 22 competing, and it had but one close competitor for fuel economy. We have been building tractor motors for over eighteen years; in fact, we built the first successful kerosene motor.

In our experience we have found that the two-cylinder twin kerosene motor for a tractor has 20 distinct advantages over the four-cylinder.

Advantages of Hart Parr 30 Two-Cylinder Twin Motor.

I. Less engine experience needed to op-erate. 12 Less power fast in transmission. 12 Less jacket walls on cylinder, hence

2. Handles kerosens better.

5. More accessible.
4. Lower cost per horse power.
5. Half the ignition trouble.

3. More accessible.
4. Lower cost per horse power.
5. Half the ignition trouble.
6. Half the valve trouble.
7. Only two man bearings. Cannot get out of line and break crank shaft.
8. Few bearings, and these may be oiled by mechanical oiler.
9. Less gearing because of lower engine speed and less reduction.
16. Best type of graving may be used because of less reduction to wheels.
12. Easier to cool with radiator
14. Sturdier, more rugged parts.
15. Slower speed, hence longer life.
16. Less wearing parts.
17. Heavy duty engines have always been one or two cylinders.
18. With tranks at 180 degrees, they may be very well balanced.
19. Similar to stationary engine.
20. Better belt power.
Make your own list of advantages of four-cylinder tractors.
